

“Wish” recipient Ramiro Vargas, 16, of East Fishkill, was diagnosed at 13 with a rare blood cancer that could have progressed to an aggressive form of leukemia if not treated. His sister Elena, now 14, donated her bone marrow to save his life.

Ramiro’s wish was to surf the Pacific Ocean at Surfer’s Paradise in Australia – a destination known to have the best waves in the world. March 2015, his wish was granted and Ramiro and his family were able to visit Australia. Not only did he take surfing lessons, but he also had the opportunity to visit Dreamworld, Australia’s largest theme park, and hold a koala bear at the Australia Zoo.
