Christopher Cortez is a New York State Associate Real Estate Broker with many years of business operations experience. He specializes in all aspects of the real estate transaction process, whether his clients are seeking their first home, searching for their forever home, or they are moving on and looking to sell their current home. Christopher focuses on what is important: his client and their goals.

Utilizing his customer service experience from his past career in finance with institutions such as Beth Israel Medical Center, Olympus Surgical and Harvard University, Christopher understands the importance of listening to his clients' wants and needs. "I also listen for what is not being said, this ability allows me to provide my clients with exactly what they are seeking", says Christopher.

Through his affiliation with Christie's International Real Estate, Christopher is able to leverage the strength of Christie's unparalleled corporate marketing resources and superior customer service programs to assist and support clients throughout the entire real estate process. Christopher is the recipient of numerous production volume awards across his tenure as a real estate professional and is a member of the National Association of Realtors, Hudson Gateway Association of Realtors, and the OneKey Multiple Listing Service.

If you are looking to sell your home, his professionalism, dedication to research, as well as his ability to provide his clients the current condition of the housing market to effectively market the property are paramount to the successful sale of real estate.

A resident of White Plains for the last 16 years, Christopher is well versed in multiple nearby Westchester communities as well as Manhattan, the driving force behind Westchester real estate. In his spare time, Christopher enjoys spending time with his wife and 12 year old son, enjoying all the amenities Westchester has to offer.
